ARIZONA HOUSE
IS A TUMULTLines, of Graham County,
Replies to Stapley and Angers Members.

Phoenix, Ariz., April 28.—All previous fights in the house of Arizona's "scrappy" assembly became insignificant when representative J. H. Lines, of Graham county, read a detailed reply to the speech in which senator O. S. Stapley attacked governor Hunt and the administration combine.

Lines started something that he had not foreseen. Graham, Goodwin and others asserted that his reply was a direct charge against the honesty of every member of the house who had not voted for the mine tax bill at the regular session. Graham demanded that Lines prove his charges or apologize.

Fight Lasts Three Hours.
The fight lasted over three hours not counting a noon recess, and ended only when Lines made a statement to the house that he had intended to cast no reflections upon anyone and believed all his colleagues to be men of honor. Graham then moved that all references to Lines's reply be expunged from the records. This was carried without opposition.

Much of the Lines statement dwelt upon the mine tax bill. He asserted that the fight between the house and senate, and between the two factions in the house, really began when the mine tax bill was introduced. That bill was characterized by him as an "iniquitous measure." Continuing, Lines said:

"Every member of this house who opposed that iniquitous measure did so because he believed in his heart that it was wrong. They did not oppose it because they were an administration collar or a corporation collar."

Frequently Interrupted.
A dozen times during the reading of the statement, Lines was interrupted by angry representatives. Speaker Brooks had hard work in securing him a hearing. Hardly had Lines finished when Graham rose on his feet with a motion that the representative from Graham be compelled to prove his charges or apologize to the house.

The fireworks were started in earnest. All the fights of the regular session were fought over. Nearly everyone demanded the right to question the statement of personal privilege. Goodwin outdistanced the rest in this popular sport, speaking to no less than seven questions of personal privilege.

The hour of noon arrived and someone moved to adjourn. Graham, Goodwin, Christy and others of the anti-administration element did not want to go to lunch, but insisted that the quarrel be settled then and there.

Fight Resumed After Lunch.
By a vote of 18 to 14 the adjournment motion carried. Lunch did not seem to have soothed the lawmakers very much who then resumed the fight at 1:30. Speaking to questions of personal privilege was renewed with a vengeance.

Pinkley suggested that Graham's motion be put in writing. Graham attempted to do this, but referred only generally to "the charges made by J. H. Lines." The chair ruled that this was too vague and asked Graham to cite some specific charge. Graham replied that the entire Lines statement was one long string of charges.

Compromise Reached.
A recess was taken to allow Graham time to rephrase his motion. In the course of that recess a compromise was reached. Lines regretted having started such a fight and agreed to make a statement of his position to the house. The statement was not exactly an apology, but it satisfied Graham, Christy, et al. After the motion to expunge Lines's reply to Stapley, and all references thereto, from the records, Ault suggested that representative Cook, a Union soldier and chaplain, arise and shake hands as an example to the legislators. This motion met with applause from the floor and the galleries.

Another Fight Starts.
Another fight over the senate concurrent memorial to governor Hunt, ensuring the land commission for not making faster progress in the trip to Chicago, was started by the committee on petitions and memorials reported the document without recommendation. Christy, the chairman, explained that he did not know the land commission to be derelict in its duty, but that he desired to see all blame laid at the door of the responsible party, the governor. Christy's arraignment of the governor for

WOMAN REFUSES OPERATION

Tells How She Was Saved
by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Louisville, Ky.—"I think if more suffering women would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound they would enjoy better health. I suffered from a female trouble, and the doctors decided I had a tumorous growth and would have to be operated upon, but I refused as I do not believe in operations. I had fainting spells, bloated, and could hardly stand the pain in my left side. My husband insisted that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful I did, for I am now a well woman. I sleep better, do all my housework and take long walks. I never fail to praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my good health."—Mrs. J. M. Rensch, 1900 West Broadway, Louisville, Ky.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

not including land legislation in his bill for an extra session was fully as scathing as that of senator Stapley. He asserted that in restricting the legislature to the consideration of general appropriations, Hunt "misrepresented the wishes of every intelligent man in Arizona."

Lines denied that the governor was responsible. The responsibility, he said, lay with the legislators who fought a bill which they had introduced. The governor is to be commended for giving us only one subject at a time, so that there is no chance for us to rip up a track.

Denials Are Made.
Questions of personal privilege again became the order of the day. A dozen representatives took occasion to deny that they had ever entered a combination or made a trade.

Cook moved that the memorial be indefinitely postponed. Only Jeffer, Johns, Graham and Buchanan opposed this motion, when speaker Brooks finally got to a vote.

An effort is to be made to have an appropriation for the relief of the flood sufferers in the Little Colorado valley, who lost their homes when the Lyman dam was washed out, included in the general appropriation bill. At first Apache county officials claimed that all the sufferers would be taken care of without outside help, but the situation has become more acute than they expected.

Attack Made on Flanagan School.
An unexpected fight has developed against the Flanagan school. It is charged that more than half of the students in that school should be in a high school in Flagstaff, but Flanagan has no high school. In fact, there is not a high school in Coconino county.

Winslow, just over the line in Navajo county, has recently completed a fine new high school. Now representative Proctor, whose home is in Winslow, brings up the point that it is unjust to make Flanagan pay a share of the maintenance of the Flanagan normal when Coconino county uses it for a high school and contributes to its support only in proportion to her assessment valuation, the same as all other counties.

The fight that Proctor has started may result in the maintenance and improvement appropriations of the Flanagan normal being materially reduced.

LABOR LEADER LAWSON TAKES STAND IN DEFENCE.
Trinidad, Colo., April 28.—John H. Lawson, labor leader, on trial for the alleged murder of John Nimmo, took the stand as a witness in his own defense at 10:45 today. It was announced that this testimony would close the case for the defense.

Lawson testified that he had counseled the striking coal miners to obey the laws and refrain from violence. He said he had imported arms into the Ludlow tent colony for defense, after being advised by attorneys that such action was legal.

"Did Mother Jones say 'Fight boys'—'Go to it, fight'?" demanded attorney Hawkins.

"Positively not," replied Lawson.

GOV. FERGUSON INVITED TO ACCOMPANY ADJUTANT.
Invited by the El Paso Adjutant, with other Adjutants of the state, to accompany the trip to Chicago on June 17, Gov. James H. Ferguson has replied that he will be glad to go on the Chicago trip if it is at all possible for him to do so.

R. E. Sherman, president of the El Paso Adjutant, received a message stating that from governor Ferguson's private secretary Friday morning.

However, Gov. Ferguson told the Dallas Adjutant that he did not consider it possible to make the Chicago trip because of official duties.

PENSIONS WOULD PREVENT "COMMERCIALIZING" PULPIT.
Chicago, Ill., April 28.—Pensions for retired ministers would have a tendency to eliminate the commercializing of the pulpit through "money making on the side," according to Dr. W. R. Warren, of Indianapolis, Ind., secretary of the board of ministerial relief of the Disciples of Christ, who addressed the National convention of conference delegates of the Methodist Episcopal church Thursday. Plans are being considered by the convention to raise a $1,000,000 fund to provide pensions for relief of ministers, their widows and orphans.

Wee Bit Of A Blue-eyed Boy Baby Wants A Good Home In America

Who wants a plump, little, blue-eyed baby boy?

Down Texas street, at No. 417, there is the fattest, most roly-poly bit of a boy who is waiting to smile sunshine into some childless home. He is five months old, is perfectly healthy and in of healthy parents.

Mrs. T. W. Cawwright has temporary charge of the baby boy and says she can hardly bear to think of giving it up. The little fellow has wrapped himself around her heart since she has taken over his loving care.

But she wishes to find a good American home for the boy and is ready to show his pink little toes and his bright blue eyes whenever anyone calls.

MEN WHO TOOK AUTO ARE REPORTED IN ARIZONA

The four Americans who assaulted Henry Salazar and robbed him of a Cadillac car which he was driving early Tuesday morning, are thought by the police to be in Arizona, on their way to the Pacific coast.

It has developed that the owner of the rooming house where the men roomed, received a telegram from Tucson, Ariz., Wednesday night, asking her to forward their luggage to Los Angeles.

It is thought the men abandoned the car in the outskirts of Deming, N. M., where it was found, and boarded a westbound train.
